

The Magic of a Mentor

What can a mentor do for you? A mentor can provide a seasoned eye to help you avoid pitfalls and a listening ear when you are thinking out loud. A mentor can also serve as a cheerleader when you are discouraged, a teacher when you are confused, and a role model when you seek inspiration.

How do you find the right mentor? How do you work with a mentor?
Why should you consider becoming a mentor for someone else?

Come join the mentoring class and learn how mentoring can be a tool for broadening the vision and capability of virtually everyone in the workplace. Formal and informal mentoring contributes to the creation of a healthier, more prosperous business world and the improvement of society as a whole.

Sally Schneider

Sally retired from Ameritas Life Insurance Corp. after 14 years in Human Resources as Assistant Vice President Employment, Training and Employee Relations. She spent the previous 21 years in Human Resources at First National Lincoln performing similar responsibilities.
